

ATE legal expenses

If you're involved in a legal dispute, our specialist team can protect you against costs you could face if you don't win.

After the Event (ATE) legal expenses insurance protects you against the risk of being ordered to pay the other side's costs if you lose at trial - or if proceedings are discontinued.

The expertise you need

The team is led by a solicitor Matthew Pinn (Solicitor Underwriter), so they know the legal system, and they know the risks and challenges it can bring. They have the expertise and the authority to assess the risks you face and resolve any queries quickly, without the need for external advice. That means we can offer exceptional speed and quality of service, and respond flexibly on premiums and coverage.

All kinds of cases

We work with all types of litigant: from individuals, to SMEs, to major multinationals. We offer tailored cover across a wide range of civil and commercial cases, including arbitrations, construction and property disputes, group actions, insolvency cases, professional negligence actions, and shareholder disputes. We're happy to consider offering cover on a standalone, co-insurance, or excess of loss basis.

Specialist claims support

Naturally you want to be confident your costs will be covered if a case goes against you. So our specialist claims adjusters work closely with our underwriters to make sure we achieve the best possible outcome for you. Our claims team understands in detail how ATE insurance works and the pressures you can face in the course of litigation.
